

Student-Centered Social Studies Strategies: Middle School/High School

January 26, 2017

8:30 a.m. – 3:30 p.m. (CST)

Workshop #058-17

GRREC Office and Training Facility • 230 Technology Way • Bowling Green • 42101

Effective teachers know the importance of engaging students, integrating literacy strategies in content lessons, and designing inquiry lessons that embed critical thinking, but what does that look and sound like in a social studies classroom? Join us and experience strategies for moving from a teacher-centered to a more student-centered social studies classroom.

Attendees will participate in a variety of lessons that illustrate these topics:

- Teaching social studies using inquiry practices
- Planning lessons using research-based social studies strategies
- Locating quality sources and resources

Teachers will need to bring a future lesson or unit topic and join with grade-level peers to plan strategies and locate resources on that topic.

*Dr. Jana Kirchner is the Instructional Supervisor for Simpson County Schools in Franklin, KY. She has 26 years of experience in education, which includes being an assistant professor in the School of Teacher Education at Western Kentucky University, a GRREC Social Studies Consultant, an ACT Quality Core facilitator, and a high school social studies and English teacher. She earned her Ph.D. in educational leadership, with an emphasis in curriculum and instruction, from the University of Louisville. She coauthored Parenting Gifted Children 101 with Dr. Tracy Inman and Decoding the Past: Inquiry-Based Lessons in U.S. History with Dr. Andrew McMichael, and has presented professional development and conference sessions on social studies, differentiation, content literacy, and teaching strategies.*
